GARY CLAXTON is a Vice President and the Director of the Health Care Marketplace Project at the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation. The Project provides information, research, and analysis about trends in the health care market and about policy proposals that relate to health insurance reform and our changing health care system. Prior to joining the Foundation, Mr. Claxton worked as a senior researcher at the Institute for Health Care Research and Policy at Georgetown University, where his research focused on health insurance and health care financing. From March 1997 until January 2001, Mr. Claxton served as the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health Policy at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, where he advised the Secretary on health policy issues including: improving access to health insurance, Medicare reform, administration of Medicaid, financing of prescription drugs, expanding patient rights, and health care privacy. Other previous positions include serving as a consultant for the Lewin Group, a special assistant to the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Health Policy in the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation, an insurance analyst for the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, and a health policy analyst for the American Association of Retired Persons.

NANCY TURNBULL is a senior lecturer in health policy in the Department of Health Policy and Management and the Associate Dean for Educational Programs at the Harvard School of Public Health. Her research interests include health insurance regulation and health care access. Before joining HSPH, Nancy worked for almost ten years for the Massachusetts Division of Insurance, where she was First Deputy Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner for Health Policy. Nancy has been actively involved in the development and implementation of the Massachusetts health reform law, including serving on the board of the Massachusetts Health Insurance Connector Authority.

DEBORAH CHOLLET is a senior fellow in the Research Division of Mathematica Policy Research, Inc., in Washington, D.C. She is responsible for leading research projects related to health insurance coverage, markets and financing for state, federal, and foundation clients. Previously, she was a vice president of AcademyHealth in Washington, D.C., directing a technical team that supported states receiving Robert Wood Johnson Foundation grants to explore health care financing reform. Before joining AcademyHealth, Dr. Chollet directed the Center for Risk Management and Insurance Research at Georgia State University, where she also served as an associate professor of risk management and insurance. She has been a senior research associate at the Employee Benefit Research Institute in Washington, D.C., and served as executive director for the federal Advisory Council on Social Security and as a senior researcher at the National Center for Health Services Research. Dr. Chollet is a founding member of the National Academy of Social Insurance and AcademyHealth. She received her Ph.D. in economics from the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University.
